Friendship

Fizzah Abid Warris

The New Student

The recess bell rung. Everyone rushed to the ground to play. Waseem, Vaqar and Talha started playing with their ball. While playing, they saw a new student standing in the corner and watching them play. The boys went to him. Vaqar asked, "Are you a new student?" The boy nodded. Talha asked, "Why don't you play with us?" The boy replied, "Yes my name is Moon. I wanted to play with you but I was scared to ask."

They all started playing together. When the ball came to Moon, he kicked it with full force. The ball crossed the boundary of the school. The rest of the boys screamed, "Oh, no! What have you done!"

They ran towards Moon. Waseem said angrily to him, "Don't you know we are not allowed to go outside? Why did you kick the ball so hard?" The three of them started fighting with Moon.

Their teacher came and the boys told him the entire story. He pacified the boys and said, "You must treat the new student like your friend. He did not intentionally kick the ball out of the school. Now shake hands and make him your friend. I will bring back your ball." The boys shook hands.

Moral: Make new friends and be kind to them.
