The Wooden Bowl

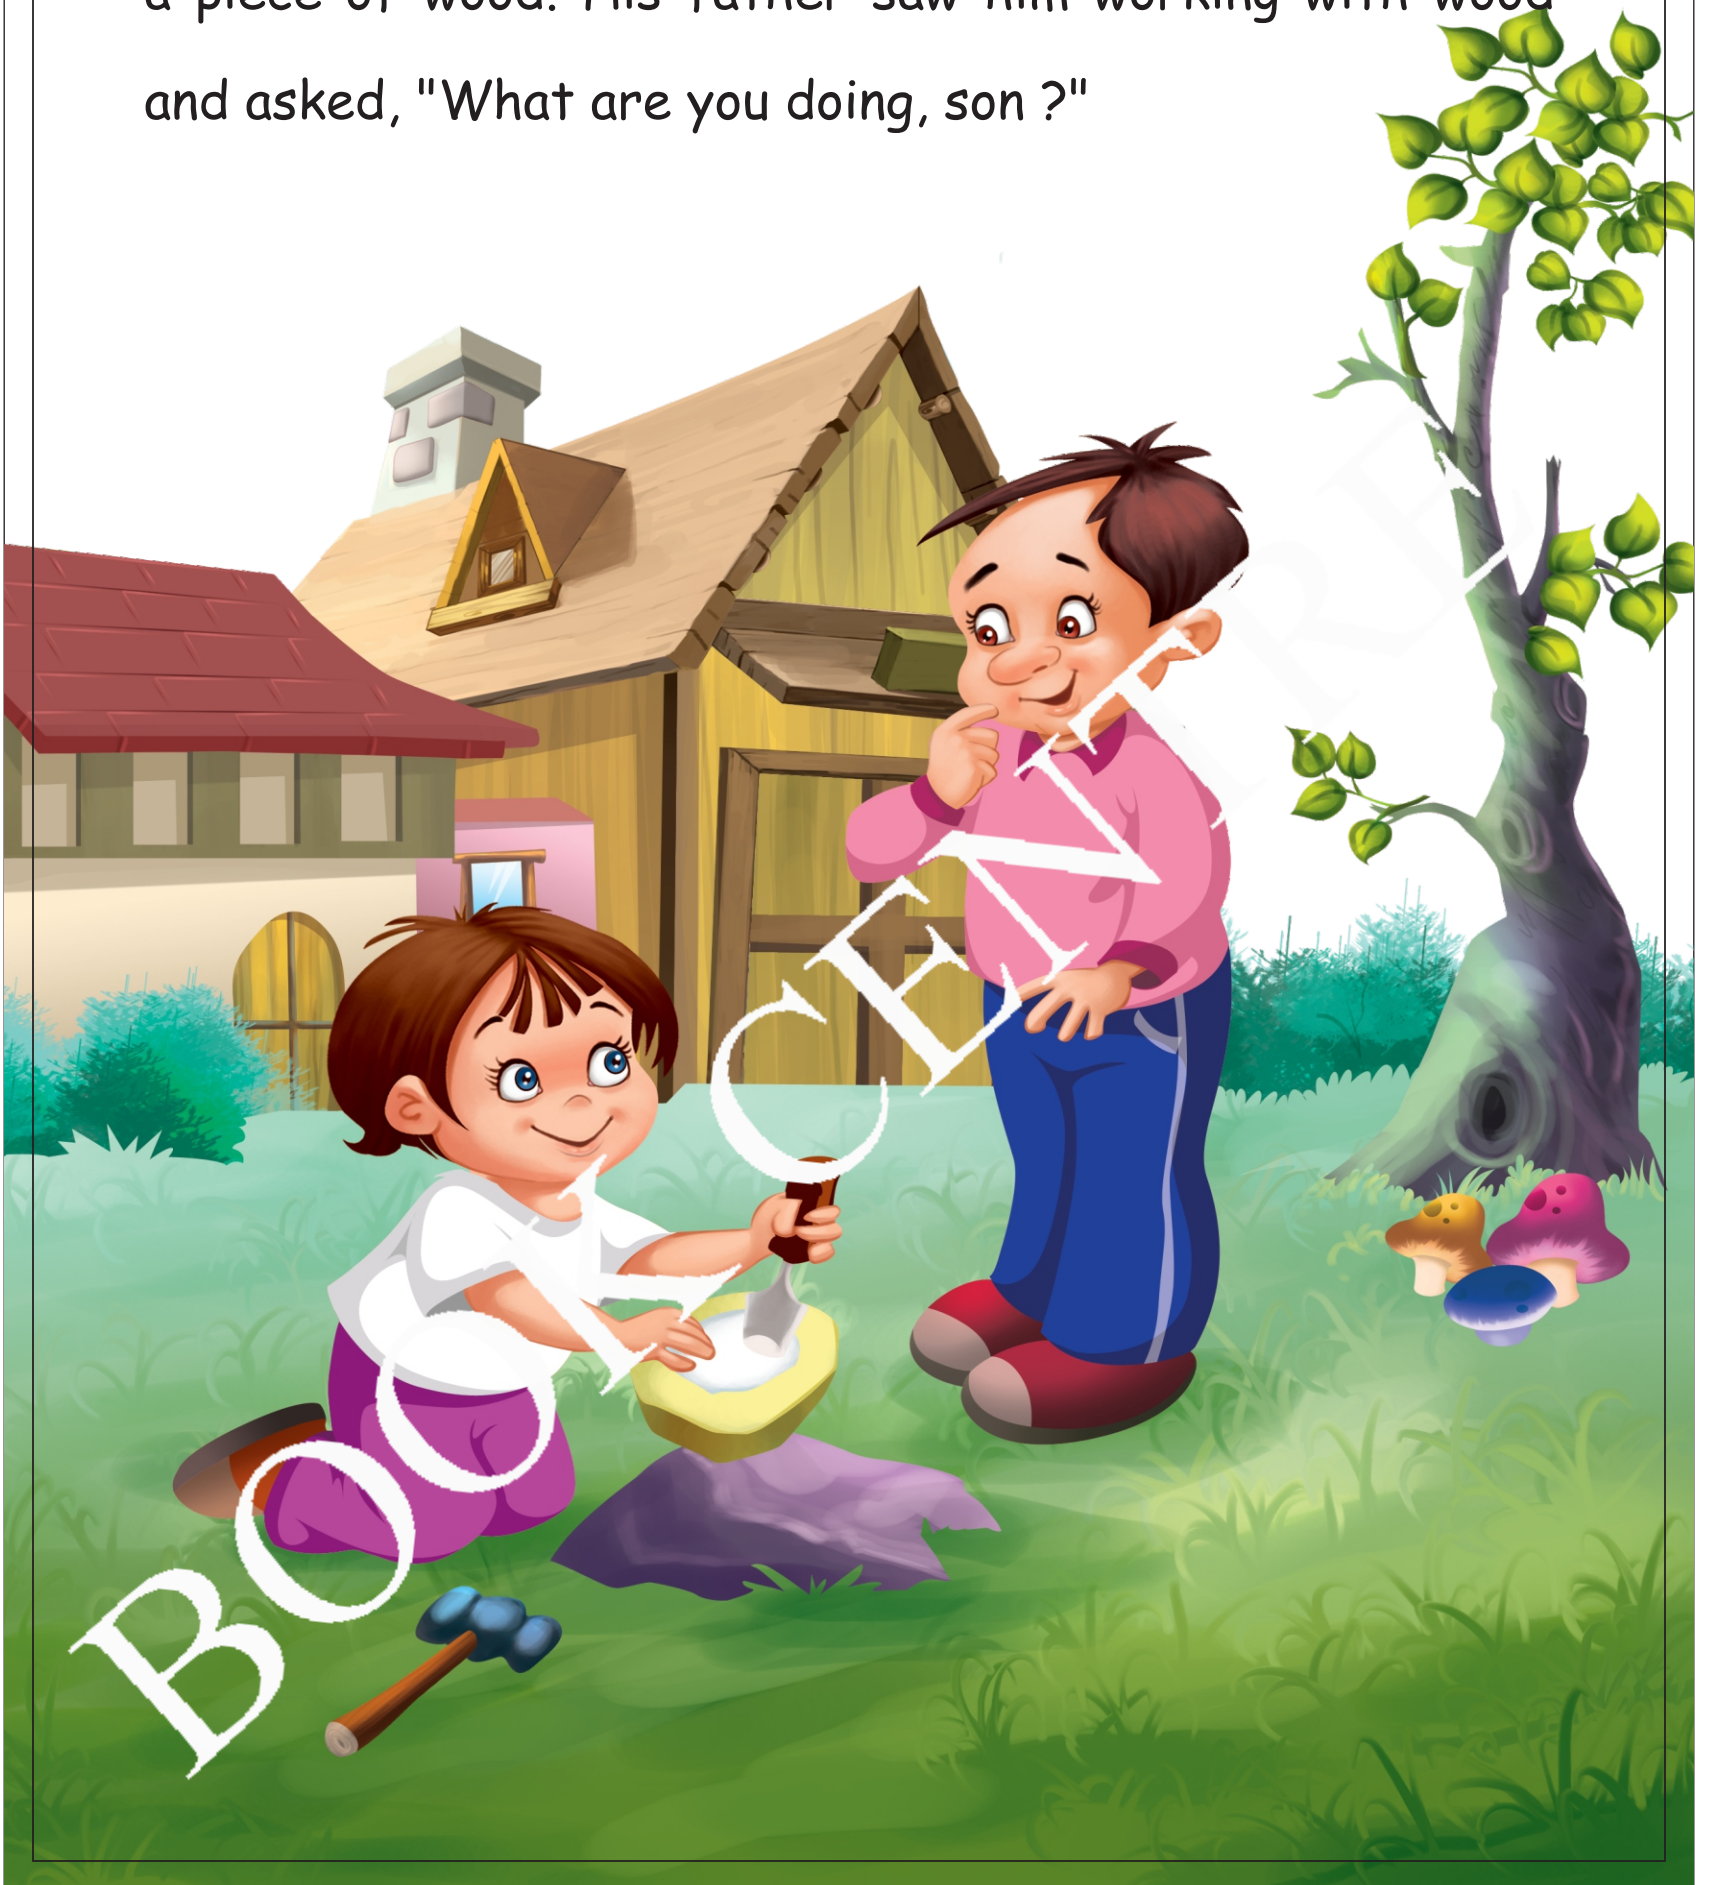

Rashid lived with his parents and grandfather in a village. He loved his grandfather very much. One afternoon, while taking lunch, Rashid's grandfather broke his bowl. Rashid's father shouted, "Father, take care of your belongings. We can't buy new things for you every day."

Next day, while eating, Rashid's grandfather again dropped the bowl. The bowl broke into pieces. This time, Rashid's father got very irritated. He said to his father in a harsh voice, "Now you will not get a new bowl."

That evening, Rashid was trying to make something out of a piece of wood. His father saw him working with wood and asked, "What are you doing, son?"

Rashid answered, "When you will grow up, you might also drop your bowl like Grandpa. I do not want to disrespect you. That is why I am trying to make a wooden bowl for you. It will not break." Rashid's father had tears in his eyes. He promised to take good care of his father. Moral: Always respect your elders
