Punctuality

Fizzah Abid Warris

The Cricket Match

Two brothers Wahab and Zohaib were very good at playing cricket. Their team mates were proud of them. One day, the captain of their team came to them and said, "Wahab and Zohaib, tomorrow we have a very important match at 5.00 pm. You are the best players of our team. Be on time and give your best."

Next evening, Wahab told Zohaib, "We have the match at 5.00 pm. Right now, it is 4 o'clock. Let us rest for half an hour and then we will go. Even if we get late, it doesn't matter. They can't play without us." Both of them went off to sleep.

When they woke up, Zohaib screamed, "Wahab, it is 6 o'clock." They ran to the playground. Their captain came to them and said, "We could not play the match because of both of you. We do not want both of you in our team now. Please leave."

Wahab and Zohaib were very sad. No one wanted to talk to them. They apologised to the entire team and promised to respect time and be punctual.

Moral: Respect the value of time.
